College Closes For First Time In 20 Years

By Amy Ceader

What's music to the ears of any college student? A single sentence: No classes today. Such was the case on January 19, when snow forced Saint Joseph's to close.

Fr. Charles Banet, C.P.P.S., college president, Dr. John Nichols, vice president for academic affairs, and James E. Thatcher, vice president for business affairs, make up the committee that decides on school cancellations.

"There were calls back and forth from Jim Thatcher, Fred Plant, and myself, from 6 to 8 a.m. that day," Nichols said. "We decided that the weather was too bad to hold classes. Our main concerns were access to buildings and the safety of commuters.

"There was a lot of snow and ice; and we thought the professors should not take risks. This was at a time when the state police closed roads and ticketed people who tried to use them.

"Another concern was housing, should any of the teachers be snowed in. Since eighty percent of the students live on campus, we usually find some way to pick up the professors. The faculty is always the deciding factor in these cases," Nichols said.

Plant said, "We received twelve inches of snow on January 19. It took four people twelve hours to clear the parking lots and sidewalks."

So what makes this instance so special? Aren't all school closings the same? Ask any student and you will get a resounding "NO!" It is rare for St. Joseph's to cancel classes. Depending on who you talk to, this was only the second such occurrence in twenty years, and some say only the second in the college's ninety-five year history.

Students were delighted by the news. But there were those who did not believe. Scores of freshmen ran through the halls. Screams filled the halls as early as 7 a.m. Some students paid no attention to the excitement.

Freshman Dawn Hodge took it easy. "I didn't do any homework. I played football in the snow, cleaned my room, and measured snow drifts with Ben Jackson."

Briget Puchalski said, "I cleaned my room and then slept."

"I studied a while. Then I watched some t.v. I also went to work," Sharry Kuehn said.

Students found their cars trapped by the twelve inches of snow that fell Jan. 19, that consequently shut down the college for one day.

Seminary Program Ends, Community Members Shocked

By Katherine Conlon

Saint Gaspar del Bufalo founded the Society of the Precious Blood on August 15, 1815. As of January 1, 1987, however, the seminarian program at Saint Joseph's College preparing young men to enter the society has ended. Fr. Tim McFarland, director of vocations, said, "The lack of numbers and financial considerations caused us to close the seminary program."

According to McFarland, the problem of not enough students preparing for the priesthood is not a problem particular to St. Joseph's. This year there are 2,800 college seminarians nationwide. That number is down 10 percent from last year. The year before that, the number was even 12 percent lower. In the last two years then, the number of student seminarians across the nation has declined 22 percent.

In 1981, St. Joseph's had 14 students enrolled in the seminary program. The following year, 15 students enrolled. The number grew again in 1983 to 17 students. In 1984, however, student enrollment in the program declined to 13. In 1985, it dropped to 10. Only four seminaries were in the program this school year.

McFarland was reluctant to end the program, but stated that if the number of seminarians reached fewer than six, he would close the program. He attempted to keep the program here because of the large number of

The VIDA program is operated by the Diocese of Pueblo, Colorado, and serves the people of Southern Colorado and northern New Mexico. The majority of the population is rural, economically depressed and Hispanic.

VIDA is interested in people who are willing to make a ten month commitment to serve in areas of youth ministry, parish work, teaching, social work and health care.

If you are willing to serve in any of the above areas, please make a point to visit with the VIDA representative or contact your campus ministry office for more information.

clergy on campus. When the enrollment did reach fewer than six, McFarland approached the formation committee of the C.P.P.S. and came up with what is now called the contact program.

Now, students interested in the priesthood do not have to make a jump into a formal program. McFarland believes that is one reason students are reluctant to enter the priesthood. People want to help others, however, the long term commitment involved with that is scary. The clergy at St. Joseph's is trying to work on an informal, contact basis with these students. The contact program prepares students seriously considering the priesthood in three ways.

First, it gives them the experience of living in a community. Secondly, students receive academic preparation. Lastly, students receive spiritual preparation, direction and

Letters to the Editor

A ST. JOE SUCCESS STORY, THE SWEET SMELL OF SWEAT

Editor,

We have done it at St. Joe! We have on our hands a grand success. The St. Joe community pulled together for quite an accomplishment.

All too often we hear each other bitch about the way things are around here. Today, however, I write about the new recreational facility. On any given night you can see all types of Puma people running; aerobicizing; walking; jogging; and playing sports such as tennis, soccer, basketball, softball, football, volleyball, etc.

Every day Pumas of all ages and sizes can be seen leaving the center covered with sweat, the day's frustrations relieved, clear minds restored with smiles on their faces.

I would like to take this moment to publicly applaud the entire St. Joe community for one hell of a job well done!

John Freiburger

SAVE MONEY, SALT SIDEWALKS

Editor,

Why doesn't the college put salt on campus sidewalks and roads? Getting around campus in the winter is an adventure in itself. You have to move at a snail's pace if you want to keep moving.

If nothing is done about the ice, people will probably fall. More falls mean more broken bones. And it's so unnecessary. After all, how much does it cost for a few bags of salt? It's nowhere near the amount of possible lawsuits.

STATE NEWS

Over 35 bills were approved by the State Senate last week including proposals regarding the lottery, interest rates, sales, tax and more.

CREDIT INTEREST RATE DEREGULATION: Removal of the 21 percent ceiling on consumer loans and bank cards issued in Indiana, and deregulating the allowable interest is the intent of Senate Bill 381, which passed the Senate Financial Institutions Subcommittee Thursday. If approved by the Legislature, Indiana would join 15 other states which have deregulated interest rates on bank cards and loans. The purpose of Bill 381 is to discourage artificial ceilings on interest rates and rely instead on the current market to determine interest rates.

EXPANDED SALES TAX: A bill which is bound to attract attention is the governor's plan to add sales tax to most services. House Bill 1800 would tax such services as repairs, including auto and electrical, personal services, membership dues and improvements to real estate. Other services which are likely to be taxed are advertising, bookkeeping, legal, and other business-related services, as well as labor charges for new home construction. HB 1800 also seeks a one-half percent reduction in the sales tax rate, from the current five percent to four-and-one-half percent.

LOTTERY: Hoosier voters could be deciding the fate of a statewide lottery as early as Nov. 1988 if Senate Joint Resolution 1 passes the Indiana House of Representatives. The resolution, which passed the Senate with unprecedented support, would allow an amendment to remove the constitutional ban on lotteries to be placed on the general election ballot. Surveys statewide are showing 70 percent of those polled would like to vote on the issue, while 88 percent of the residents of District 7 were in favor of voting on the lottery. Twelve percent of those who responded to Wolf's legislative questionnaire were against a vote on the lottery.

ANTI-SMOKING BILLS: The Senate Public Policy Committee considered several bills on banning smoking in public places, such as restaurants, bowling alleys, and shopping areas, as well as restrictions on smoking in government buildings. Because of the outpouring of testimony, voting on the bills will be conducted next week. A House bill, however, was approved by the House Judiciary Committee. Under HB 1007, a person caught smoking in a designated non-smoking area of a government building could be fined $500.

Dedicated To Trisha Gomez

As the wind carries a leaf to the ground,
Something I have witnessed
Something I have found
A vast forest I have seen
Paints a picture
That means something to me.

The winds of change have come upon us
Taking away a life
That was among us.
From the whisper of the trees
I heard a voice
So strange to me
It left a message in my heart
But the forest and I are apart.

This message is for all of us to learn.
And grow until
It is our turn.
Need we say, need we care?
But how much time can we spare
Only time will bring
New life in the spring
A life we all envy
A place where we all want to be.

Someday we will be
With you again
Like the tree
Is to the forest
We hurt because we cared
A part of you we all shared.

You were something to us all
Taken away from us
In the midst of fall.
That life that meant so much to me
Was swept away like a leaf from a tree.

J.M. and N.M.

New Recreation Center Is Popular With Students

By Michelle Tyler

The number of students who use the St. Joe recreational center is not specifically known, but it is definitely high. Almost everyone, if not everyone, will agree that the building was a great success.

Its hours of 7 a.m. to 11 p.m. are often occupied with the sound and movement of classes, aerobics, athletic teams, intramural sports, and other students playing tennis. Students are the first priority in the center; therefore, it is not actually open to the general public. The main reason for this is the lack of insurance coverage for other people who might venture into and use the facilities.

All students are welcome to use the facilities, but the building director, tennis coach John Barrientos, asks that the facilities be

Nursing Program "Made In Heaven"

By Katherine Conlon
and John Rickett

"It appears to be a match made in heaven," Vice President for Academic Affairs John Nichols said about the joint nursing program in its first year between Saint Joseph's College and St. Elizabeth Hospital in Lafayette. Thirty-three students are involved this year, and by next year it is expected to grow to approximately 45 students.

St. Elizabeth Hospital School of Nursing was established in 1897 as a training school for the Sisters of St. Francis. In 1923, lecture and demonstration rooms were added and 14 years later the first lay students were admitted.

For many years students at St. Elizabeth School of Nursing have received college credit for physical and social sciences, the school elected to become affiliated with Saint Joseph College. Today, students receive approximately 60 college credits from Saint Joseph's College.

The Bachelor of Science in Nursing degree offered by St. Joseph's College for registered nurses is designed to provide both personal and professional growth which encompasses the enrichment of liberal arts with the competencies promoted in nursing education. The purpose of the BSN completion program is to broaden the nurse's knowledge base and further develop the ability to think critically. It is designed to foster flexibility related to changing health care needs and an increased awareness of nursing as a profession.

A minimum of 128 semester hours and a cumulative index of 2.00 are required for the Bachelor of Science in Nursing (BSN) degree. A minimum of 30 semester hours must be completed at Saint Joseph's College.

Seven courses are being ofered at Saint Joseph's for BSN students. Core 3, 4, 7, 8 and 10 are offered. Psychology of Human Development (Psychology 23) and Abnormal Psychology (Psychology 24) are classes nursing students can take here.

Presently, students attend classes on the weekend, in the evening, or in the instance of Core, with the class at the regular time.

Nichols said, "The nursing students are getting a good education and Saint Joseph's is receiving more students. It appears to be a match made in Heaven."

counseling from their advisor.

McFarland noted four reasons why people are shying away from the priesthood. First, people today are putting off commitment until later. Marriage is his prime example of this because people are marrying later in life and starting families later. Second, many students do not have a real good idea of what the priesthood is all about. Third, since this is a sex saturated society, the celibacy issue tends to put students off. Fourth, the lack of knowledge and education prevents people from becoming priests.

The C.P.P.S. has several different ministries. It has 700 members in 15 different countries. Right now they have missions in Central and South America, India and Africa.

Many provinces or areas of concentration are offered to members of C.P.P.S. Among them are teaching, parochial work, chaplain in hospital, prison ministry, and retreat.

"The ending of the seminary program came as a real blow to some community members," McFarland said. He noted that the community thought it might be coming to this, but not just so soon.

"The new contact program is certainly taking a new direction, one that will enable us to meet the candidates where they are and help direct them to what they want to do," McFarland said.

Snow Route Developed

Possibly one of the most dangerous aspects of the recently adverse weather conditions on campus is driving. Not only are conditions hazardous but road crews trying to clear the streets find they have difficulty as well. The problem? Parking in the wrong areas; or in places where workers need room to clear the roads.

As a result, the Security Department of St. Joseph's College has developed an Emergency Snow Route in order to direct and caution drivers of vehicles to remain off the roads in order for them to be cleared. In the case of the ESR, a red flag is flown outside Halleck Center. This is an indication that drivers are not to park on the streets, but rather in the respective parking places.

The ESR began here last year, and according to SJC Director of Security Ernest Watson, "It's similar to (places like) Chicago. When there is a certain amount of snow, drivers are to park in lots," and not on the streets. Watson also added that there are students who fail to follow the procedure.

As he stated, "Some think when it snows they can park anywhere and they try to make excuses." As a result, fines in the form of traffic tickets have been issued. The amount of the fine for a snow emergency parking violation is fifty dollars.

Security regulations for the ESR as well as other traffic and parking violations and their fines are listed in the Puma Guide.

respected. "We are very lucky to have such a nice place on campus. If everyone does their part to preserve the excellence that exists now, it will be something that the community can be proud of and enjoy for a long time to come. Common sense will help to keep the facilities and equipment nice," he said.

The staff tries to always have one court available for use. The courts operate by reservations which are often held by tennis, basketball, volleyball, soccer, and other groups. "It can be quite a madhouse with all that activity," Barrientos added, "The students who work here do their best to see that all runs smoothly."

MEASURE Accepting Articles

The staff of MEASURE, the campus literary magazine, is seeking submissions for the 1987 issue.

"We would like to get a broad range of literature in MEASURE," said John Groppe, professor of English and advisor to the magazine. In the past, Best of Core essays were published in MEASURE and Groppe mentioned the possibility of doing the same for this issue.

The magazine's staff hopes to receive works from alumni as well as students. Some former MEASURE workers have become published authors. Philip Deaver ('68) won the Flannery O'Connor Short Story Award from the University of Georgia Press. Norbert Krapf ('68) has had four books published since graduation and has since written selections for MEASURE.

A series of workshops will be sponsored by the staff to help generate articles. Students are asked to bring in their work and have it critiqued by the staff. The next meeting will be Tuesday, Feb. 10. Final deadline for submissions is Feb. 20. Estimated publication date is the third week of April.

Poems, short stories, line drawings and black and white photographs are desired, but any artwork or written work will be considered. Faculty and staff may also contribute.

Anyone interested should contact any of the following: Amy Ceader, Tom Cotres, Angie Fought, Ann Merkel, Mike Sheehan, Nancy Wagner.

Pumas Lose 3 In A Row By A Total Of 7 Points

By Mike Monahan

In a non-conference game at Alumni Fieldhouse, the Cougars of Southern Illinois-Edwardsville defeated the Pumas 85-82.

The Pumas started off jumping to an 8-2 lead in the first three minutes with two baskets by Joe Ruzevich, a layup by freshman Matt Eckert and a basket by Todd Kennard. The Cougars came back to tie the game at 10 with just under 15 minutes left on a basket by pre-season All-American pick John Edwards.

SU-E then took the lead 14-10 with 13:38 left in the first half. Chris Brown's tip in and Stan Kappers' free throw made the score 14-13 with 13:48 remaining. The Cougars built their lead back up to five with 10:47 left. St. Joe then scored six straight points with two free throws and a layup by Kappers and a Chris Brown dunk.

The teams traded baskets until Kennard shot a free throw with 8:08 left tying the game at 22. The Pumas took the lead 27-26 with 6:32 remaining on a Ruzevich tip in. Falling behind by no more than five points, the Pumas came back and tied the score at halftime at 43 with a Kennard basket.

The second half started with Kappers getting his third foul. Tim Goodman made one free throw. James Jappa made a basket to give SU-E a 46-43 lead. James Stanley and Kennard traded three point shots.

With the Cougars up by four, Stitz and Kennard made layups. Kennard was fouled and made the free throw to complete the three point play to give St. Joe their last lead of the game at 53-52 with 15:37 left.

The Cougars then scored 13 points in a row to give them their biggest lead of the game, 65-53, with 12:15 remaining. The Pumas answered with six straight points of their own as Jerry Alicea drove the lane for a layup. Kennard scored the other four points making the score 65-59. The Cougars' lead went back and forth between eight and six points until Alicea made a three pointer to cut the lead to five. After an ISU-E basket, Alicea made another three pointer, lessening the lead to four points.

Again, teams traded baskets including a lob to Kappers for a slam dunk with 3:04 left. The score was 79-72 SU-E. With 2:05 left, Kennard cut it to three 79-76. Jappa made a basket and two free throws in between Puma free throws by Kappers, making the score 83-78 with 54 seconds left.

Kennard made a basket with 17 seconds remaining. For ISU-E, Frankie Williams shot two free throws to make it 85-80 with 14 seconds left. Kennard drove the lane for a layup with seven seconds left and Alicea fouled Stanley. Stanley missed a one and one. The Pumas got the rebound, passed the ball to Alicea who drove down, then appeared to be tripped as he was dribbling back to the three point line. No foul was called as Alicea fell and lost the ball as time expired to give the Cougars a 85-82 victory.

Stanley led the Cougars with 22 points. Jappa and Edwards added 21 points for SU-E.

Kennard led the Puma attack with 27. Kappers had 21, Alicea and Ruzevich added 11 points for the Pumas.

The Pumas also lost two heartbreaking games to Lewis University. January 24, Lewis sent the game into overtime by hitting a three point shot at the buzzer. Jamie Martin hit a basket to give the Flyers the 66-65 win at St. Joe. The Pumas lost a second time to Lewis Saturday. The game was played at Lewis. Again the game went into overtime, with the Pumas coming just three points short of a victory, 81-78.

The Pumas face Ashland tonight at Ashland. Saturday they travel to Fort Wayne before returning to play Bellarmine on Feb. 12.

Lady Pumas Undefeated In Conference With 12-3 Record

By Mary Ryan

The Lady Pumas continued their winning ways last weekend as they defeated rival Lewis University by a score of 70-68. The Pumas improved their overall record to 12-3 and remain undefeated in their conference. Sophomore tri-captain Tracy Payne led all scorers with 24 points and nine rebounds.

Senior tri-captain Judy Stewart, who scored her 1,000 career point in the Bahamas over Christmas break, went on a scoring spree in the first half. She was four for four in three point attempts, and at the half, had 14 points. She ended the evening with 22 points, seven rebounds and seven assists.

Susie Bosch led Lewis scorers with 20 points.

The Pumas led throughout most of the game, going into the locker room at the half leading 32-28. St. Joe was plagued with second half turnovers, but put things together in the final seconds of the game.

With two minutes left in the game, the Pumas were leading 68-61. Then Lewis began to capitalize on Lady Puma miscues, tying the score at 68 with only 19 seconds left. Following a Puma time out, St. Joe brought the ball up court and Stewart passed to tri-captain Candy Klein for what would be the winning basket. Ten seconds were left on the clock.

A last second three point attempt by Lewis was no good. The Pumas prevailed 70-68.
